

Climate change as a threat

More than half of Californians see climate change as a very serious threat to the future of California's economy and quality of life.

Source: Public Policy Institute of California. "Don't know" answers excluded.