

Climate change consequences: Fears of more severe wildfires

A growing percentage of Californians are very concerned that a consequence of global warming will be a future of more severe wildfires.

Source: Public Policy Institute of California. "Don't know" responses excluded.